Re: Freyenhagen Construction Letter of Recommendation

To Whom It May Concern:

After nearly 40 years in the same place we were considering buying a new home. We didn't see anything to our liking and we liked our current location and mature landscaping. We had seen the Freyenhagen crew in our neighborhood and had heard favorable comments from a former partner. We thought we'd see whether changes to our home would satisfy our desire for something new.

Jeremy approached the project by telling us that anything was possible! So raising the roof to accommodate a higher ceiling, relocating plumbing, moving walls, and wrapping a stone fireplace with new walls all seemed feasible.

The design presented to us exceeded what we thought could be done to refresh our old home. The crew was great to work with. Everything we were promised was done and the project was actually completed two days early. Oh yes, we also liked the rules, such as no smoking, daily cleanup, starting times and no swearing (either by or at your employees).

We particularly enjoyed seeing the designs and contemplating the suggestions for the project. Fine tuning everything on the computer was very impressive and helpful.

We appreciated the prompt responses we received to all of our questions and suggestions. We feel that communications were excellent on at least three levels:

- Most immediate was the job foreman, Ed Smith, who was nearly always available and was very knowledgeable.
- Dan & Jeremy stopped by nearly every day as well and also were very responsive.
- The subs were also available when needed.

One of the most important services provided was the detailed week by week plan and schedule, which, with minor adjustments in the course of the work, was closely followed. We always knew what to expect next.

The quality of work was top notch. The crew (both employees & subcontractors) were so great to work with, we almost hated to see them leave. We really liked the way they worked together, helping each other with the various tasks.

We not only would recommend Freyenhagen Construction, we already have recommended them to our friends!

Sincerely,

Gareld & Barbara Krieg
